

SUPER G STEALS THE SHOW

GARBOLINO'S new power pole – the Super G is a real attention grabber – gaining plenty of plaudits at the recent Total Coarse Fishing Show.

Compatible with all the G series poles in the Garbolino range it comes with an enviable package and is rated by Garbolino UK boss Darren Cox as the best power pole the company has produced.

'It's been built on the G series mandrels for compatibility and it has been designed to be used at its full 14.5 metres.

'Not so long ago you would have been looking at a pole of this standard as a top line all rounder, but with modern materials and technology we've been able to produce a lighter, better balanced pole that still has incredible strength. So not only is it built for pretty extreme fishing, it is a pleasure to use,' revealed Darren.

The Super G comes with a standard top three kit fitted, which is rated for elastics to 14, and there are three top two power kits rated to 20 included, as well as a super power top two rated at 20-plus. Also included are two power four sections, an extending cupping kit plus cups and a pole holdall. Extensions are available to take the pole to 16 m and further for £150. Costing £799 the Garbolino Super G is in shops now.
